World Fertility and Family Planning 2020: Highlights,

5. Today, almost half of all women of reproductive age are using some form of contraception

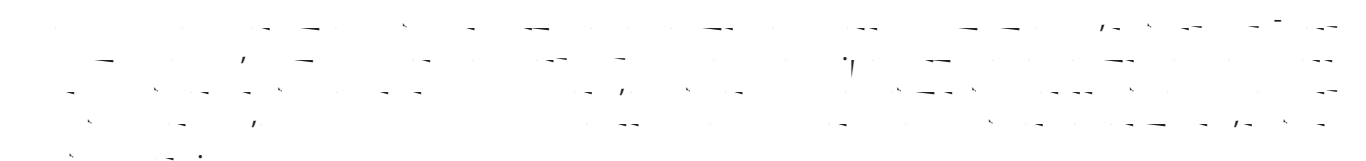

6. Among contraceptive users, the vast majority are using modern methods

7. Contraceptive use and fertility are inversely correlated

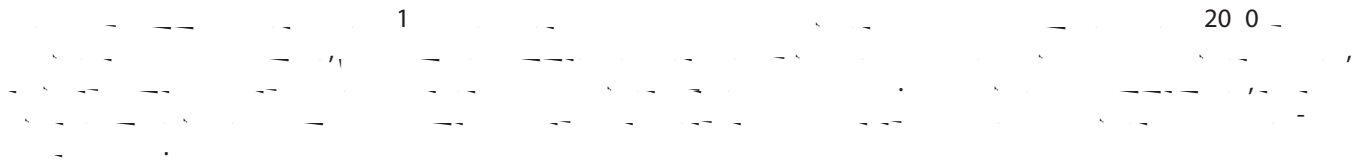

8. The relationship between contraceptive use and fertility is influenced by many factors

9. Socioeconomic factors play an important role in determining fertility levels

10. Achieving universal access to sexual and reproductive health by 2030 requires intensified support for family planning

Prepared by the Population Division of the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs. These key messages are based on World Fertility and Family Planning 2020: Highlights, which provides a global overview of trends in fertility and family planning and reviews the status of implementation of the relevant internationally agreed goals and targets. More work of the Population Division is available at www.unpopulation.org.
