The world's population is growing larger and older, while also becoming more mobile and more urbanized. Population size, structure and distribution have major implications for, and will be significantly influenced by, the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. The following key findings are drawn from a report of the Secretary-General's Advisory Panel on the Implementation of the Goals and Objectives of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development (ICPD), <http://www.un.org/en/development/desa/pa/2017/04/20170401-icpd-report.html>.
