

This year, the Contest piece combines a simple description of the extravagances in which the rich can indulge with the stinging sarcasm of those who have not been as fortunate in life. That may