1.15 In the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, we pledged that “no one will be left behind”. We declared that we wished to see the new goals and targets met for all nations and peoples and for all segments of society. We said also that we will endeavour to reach the furthest behind first. We reaffirm today our commitments which relate to the specific needs of migrants ~~and~~ refugees. The Agenda makes clear, inter alia, that we will “facilitate orderly, safe, regular and responsible migration and mobility of people, including through the implementation of planned and well-managed migration policies”. The needs of refugees, internally displaced persons and migrants are explicitly recognized.

1.16 Implementation of all relevant provisions of the Agenda will enable the contribution which migrants and refugees are making to sustainable development to be reinforced. At the same time, it will address many of the reasons that compel people to move~~root causes of forced displacement~~, helping to create more favourable conditions in countries of origin. Meeting today a year after our adoption of the 2030 Agenda, we are determined to realize the full potential of that Agenda for refugees and migrants.

1.17 We reaffirm the discriminated against on the basis of their sexual orientation or gender identity; indigenous persons; and victims of exploitation and abuse in the context of human trafficking and ~~migrant smuggling~~ of migrants and refugees.

- 2.3 Recognising that States have rights and responsibilities to manage and control their borders, we will implement both on arrival and return border management procedures, including disembarkation procedures and security and identification procedures, which are in conformity with applicable obligations under international law, including international human rights law and international refugee law. We will ensure that public officials and law enforcement officers who work in border areas are trained to uphold the human rights of all persons crossing, or seeking to cross, international borders. We acknowledge that States, while obliged under international law to examine any request for asylum made at their borders, are entitled to take measures to prevent illegal border crossings and to protect against terrorists entering16Pr5.3 (ge)2.8 (n)14 (o)11.9 (t)-3.6 (ru5.3 (g)5.2 (st)3.21(i)2.8 (ne)

3.15 We strongly encourage cooperation between, on the one hand, countries of origin or nationality and, on the other, countries of destination and other relevant countries in ensuring that migrants who do not have a legal right to stay in the latter can return to their country of origin.

- 4.6 We believe that a comprehensive response should be developed, initiated and coordinated by UNHCR and involving other relevant UN entities, for all situations involving large movements of refugees. This should involve a multi-stakeholder approach spanning national and local authorities, international organizations,

4.14 We urge Member States who have not yet established resettlement programmes to consider doing so at the development banks and improvements in access to concessional development financing for affected communities. It is clear, furthermore, that private sector investment in support of refugee communities and host countries will be of critical importance over the coming years. Civil society is also a key partner in every region of the world in responding to the needs of refugees.

- 4.23 Noting the high-level meeting on refugees which the United States, Jordan, Ethiopia, Sweden, Canada, Germany and the Secretary General will host on 20 September 2016, we look forward to the pledges of support which individual Member States are expected to make there.

- 5.1 We agree that arrangements are needed to ensure systematic follow-up and review of the range of commitments we are making today. These arrangements might be envisaged, in particular, in the context of reviews of progress on implementation of the 2030 Agenda. Accordingly, we request the Secretary General
