

Chapter VI

E e , a a e ce a d e a a f a

In 2015, the conservation, development and use of energy and natural resources along with the development and promotion of global geospatial the year, the Agency conducted 108 training courses and workshops (23 regional or international, and 85 national), at which 2,315 participants were trained in all aspects of nuclear security. The Agency also held its first International Conference on Computer Security in a Nuclear World: Expert Discussion and -27.4 12.5 (s434312. a o 20.7 oca26.2 (c)718.8 (i)5.5 (c)-31.9 22c0.6 (i)10.3 (n)712 (rinch TJr8(t)6.4.4 (n)512 (e)29.9 (e)-11.5 (i)55. (p)-rt 056.v3 (r11o reference frame to relate measurements taken at different times and locations. A common global geodetic reference frame would enable multilateral cooperation